Subject: An Anonymous Classification Challenge

Prepared By: Rudolph H. Waddy, ISOO Program Analyst

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

- At approximately 9:40 a.m., Friday, July 27, 1984, the Information Security Oversight Office (ISOO) received an anonymous phone call from a self-identified Government employee.
- Miss Janet Brooks, ISOO staff member received the call. Miss Brooks said, the caller (male) asked for the ISOO liaison with the Central Intelligence Agency. However, at 10:04 a.m. on July 27, 1984, Miss Brooks said that she could not remember if the caller used the term "Agency" or "Central Intelligence Agency."
- Miss Brooks then transferred the call to Mr. Harold Mason's desk, who was (unknown to her) on leave. She then contacted me, Rudolph Waddy and asked me to help the caller, I said, sure.
- The caller said that he did not wish to identify himself, but did say that he was a Government employee.
- The caller said the he had recently read a "Confidential" memo or article entitled "Media Leaks" dated July 23, 1984, and signed by John McMahon, Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency.
- He went on to say that, the classification of articles of this nature give Government employees more cause to disrespect the present classification system.
- He said, in his opinion and the opinion of others, that there was absolutely nothing classifiable about this article, and that it did not merit a "Confidential" classification.
- The caller then requested that someone in this office (ISOO) take a look at it.
- I then asked the caller if he, in affect was challenging the classification of this document. He said, yes.

2

- I then asked him who should ISOO contact in order to obtain a copy of the document.
- He gave me the following information:
  - . Document Control Number - INFIC - 9.2/72
  - . Phone Number -

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20505

NFIC-9.2/72

MEMORANDUM FOR: National Foreign Intelligence Council Members

SUBJECT: Media Leaks (U)

1. CIA recently sent its Headquarters employees a notice reminding them of security requirements concerning unauthorized discussions of classified information with the media, and of penalties for noncompliance. This was occasioned by the remarks of a prominent journalist invited to participate in a discussion on intelligence and the media at a seminar for senior CIA officers. The journalist assured the group that he has sources of classified information among CIA employees. He said he is sometimes assisted in spotting CIA sources by analysts in other departments and agencies who identify individuals dealing with specific issues or topics within CIA. He added that he then calls the CIA employees at their homes in the evening and finds that some of them are willing to talk. [redacted]

2. If the claim is true, Intelligence Community personnel may be unthinkingly facilitating the efforts of journalists to obtain and publish classified information, thereby making it available to foreign intelligence services. CIA is responsible for ensuring that its personnel adhere to regulations governing press contacts. It would be helpful to the security of intelligence information generally if appropriate personnel in the NFIC departments and agencies were briefed on the hazards of being used by media representatives to provide referrals, and on their security obligations not to respond to media inquiries on sensitive subjects. Any media inquiries about the CIA or its activities, whether classified or unclassified, should be referred to the CIA Office of Public Affairs, 351-7676. [redacted]

3. Your help in trying to reduce unnecessary discussion with the media of sensitive or potentially sensitive matters would be greatly appreciated.

1. Action Requested: That you sign, as Vice Chairman, National Foreign Intelligence Council (NFIC), a memorandum to NFIC members alerting them to a security problem and asking their assistance in remedying it. [redacted]
2. Background and Discussion: This spring, journalist Philip Taubman participated in a discussion on intelligence and the media as part of a seminar for new SIS officers. Taubman told the group that he has sources of information among CIA employees, and that he is steered to them by analysts in other Community organizations. After this information was provided to you, a Headquarters Notice (copy attached) was sent out to remind all employees of their security obligations and penalties for noncompliance. [redacted]
3. Taubman's claim that persons in other departments and agencies help him by providing names of CIA analysts working on particular problems shows the need to notify the Community of the security hazards involved in providing such leads, and to ask NFIC Members to instruct their personnel not to respond to media inquiries on sensitive subjects. A proposed memorandum to do so is attached. Since Taubman specifically mentioned State Department analysts as sources of leads to CIA personnel, you may wish to contact the Director, INR, informally to reinforce the message in the proposed memorandum. [redacted]
4. Recommendation: That you sign the attached proposed memorandum.

MEDIA LEAKS

No Field Counterpart to this HN.

1. At a recent Agency training course for senior officers, a prominent journalist participated in a discussion on intelligence and the media. Among other things, he assured the group that he has sources of classified information among CIA employees. He said he is sometimes assisted in spotting CIA sources by analysts in other departments and agencies who tell him of individuals dealing with specific issues or topics within the Agency. He then calls the CIA employees at home in the evening and finds that some of them are willing to talk.

2. This revelation is shocking. Agency regulations, security indoctrinations, and the very environment in which we live leave no doubt in the minds of employees that unauthorized discussions with the media about classified information are a serious breach of security and trust of employment.

3. Employees are reminded that under the terms of  Release of Agency Information to Representatives of the Public Information Media, all inquiries, whether official or unofficial, from representatives of the media must be referred to the Public Affairs Office. This policy is firm. Employees who are discovered violating this policy expose themselves to harsh administrative penalties, including termination of employment.
